

Kid meeting

June 2009

What do you think of when you think of church?

What do you like about our church?

Is there something you don't like about it?

Would you like to learn some songs that the adults sing in church on Sundays so you can sing along?

Do you like having joys and concerns along with the grown-ups, or would you like to have separate joys and concerns for kids during RE?

Church is a place where you should feel like you can ask questions about things that are sometimes hard for even grown ups to understand – about god, about faith, about religion, about life and death. Are there any questions that you often have? Try to think about some questions this summer, and I'll collect them in August, just before the school year starts. We'll have a special service with the kids and grown-ups on August 30th where the grown-ups will try to answer those questions.

Dear grown-ups,

Please help me collect my questions about life, death, religion, church, and more. I need to bring them to church August 24. The grown ups will try to answer some of my questions at the intergenerational service on August 30.
